SUPERIOR FILTRATION

Graph indicates particulate matter (PM) captured at decreasing sizes (microns): At 1.0 microns nanofilter captures 99.70%. At 0.3 microns (the metric used for N95 testing) HALO Mask filters capture 97.9%, exceeding N95 standards. Results suggest that with correct use HALO Masks are effective in capturing Covid19.

BFE Test Standard on par with ASTM F2100 and EN14683, VFE Test Standard on par with ASTM F2101, Test Conditions for BFE & VFE - 70.8 L/min, 10% NaCl, 100cm². Mean Particle Size (MPS) 3.0 ± 0.3 µm

COST COMPARISON to N95 MASK

N95-rated disposable (or similar) mask:

- mask $9/ea* lifespan 1 week, cost = $108/Q or $432/yr

HALO Mask N97.9 (washable 1yr lifespan)

- mask $29.99 + 3 filters $7.50 ea = $52.49/Q
- additional 9 filters $7.50 ea = $67.50 (+ 52.49) = $120/yr

Savings per quarter = $55

Savings per year = $312

HALOLIFE.IO

Across the USA and many countries in various stages of lockdown, people are itching to get back to 'normal life', however with uncertainty and confusion about levels of safety and exposure, it makes perfect sense to wear a facemask that not only protects you, but protects others around you.

According to many health professionals, wearing a mask on public transport and in crowded places not only protects you but also those around you if you're under the weather. The HALOmask filters both ways, so if you're coughing or sniffing, nothing becomes airborne.

As the coronavirus recedes there are still compelling reasons to wear a protective facemask. Whether commuting, walking or biking in traffic, being exposed to dust, ash or smoke, suffering allergies or chemical sensitivity, or living in industrial or agricultural regions, wearing an effective facemask makes a WORLD of difference, physically, emotionally and psychologically!

HALO IS HERE TO HELP
